Kansas City, MO (Feb. 6, 2017) – Lyric Opera of Kansas City General Director and CEO Deborah Sandler today announced its 60th anniversary, with four world-class works in the Kauffman Center for the Performing Arts including the NEW PRODUCTION of Eugene Onegin, the KANSAS CITY PREMIERE of Everest, Verdi’s Rigoletto and Rossini’s The Barber of Seville.

In its second season, the Lyric’s new 2017-2018 Explorations Series at the Michael and Ginger Frost Production Arts Building and at Grace & Holy Trinity Cathedral includes four presentations: Meet the Resident Artists, The Bernstein Songbook with New York Festival of Song, As One and American Voices – Art Songs & Arias.

“Our 60th season, featuring 17 Kansas City debuts, is designed to give our audiences an experience like no other, whether you renew your love for a beloved classic or grow breathless at a brand new work,” Sandler said. “This season reflects our long history with iconic stories that have stood the test of time, and groundbreaking productions that explore opera’s ability to create truly compelling storytelling. Our mission is to make Lyric Opera of Kansas City indispensable to the public through transformational opera experiences and broad service that captures the hearts and minds of our communities.”

The 2017-2018 season opens with Tchaikovsky’s compelling masterpiece, Eugene Onegin (oh-nyeh-gin) and will feature notable Lyric Opera debuts including Morgan Smith as Onegin and Stuart Stratford conducting, as well as the return of soprano Joyce El-Khoury. Following this Romantic milestone is the exhilarating new opera, Everest in its Kansas City premiere, which will include major Lyric Opera debuts including Andrew Bidlack as Rob Hall, Craig Verm as Doug Hansen Michael Mayes as Beck Weathers and Leonard Foglia directing. It also features the much-anticipated Lyric Opera debut of Dallas Opera Principal Guest Conductor Nicole Paiement. In only its second performance since the acclaimed world premiere in Dallas, this production of Everest is based on the true-life tragedy that claimed the lives of 15 climbers in 1996. It conveys the enormity of the disaster with a percussion section so large that it overflows the orchestra pit, forcing the voice of the mountain itself to “spill out” into the audience and surround it with sound. The Company then returns to its Italian roots to revel in the gritty realism of Verdi’s dark Rigoletto, featuring major Lyric Opera debuts of Leo An as Rigoletto, Nicole Haslett as Gilda; and Peixin Chen as Sparafucile. Its highly recognizable melodies and often intimate tunes offer the small comfort of familiarity as the characters careen toward their intense and famously tragic end. The season concludes with Rossini’s bel canto comedy, The Barber of Seville. Notable debuts include Jarrett Ott as Figaro, Emily Fons as Rosina, and Jack Swanson as Almaviva as well as director Michael Shell. This reimagined comedy plants the story-in the carnival-like setting of Spain’s Seville April Fair, creating a mirthful world in which ’60s surrealism and satire intermingle.

In one of the greatest of all musical adaptations of a literary classic, Tchaikovsky turned Pushkin’s Russian “novel in verse” into one of the world’s most beloved operas. Awash in aristocratic formality and extravagance, Onegin’s youthful disillusionment snowballs into a tragic love story saturated with drama, reversal of affections, betrayal of friendship, and death. Pushkin’s profoundly human, ultimately devastating story, elevated by Tchaikovsky’s richly layered and unabashedly expressive music, make Eugene Onegin perhaps the most universally beloved of all Russian operas.

Immensely popular since its premiere in 1851, Verdi’s Rigoletto (based on the play by Victor Hugo) tells the story of a hunchbacked jester dealing with the beauty and evil of life. Alternately grand and intimate, the opera highlights Verdi’s unique expansion of the conventions of Italian opera of mid-19th century. When court jester Rigoletto’s comedic cruelty crosses the line, he is cursed by a courtier, and the curse threatens his attempts to protect his innocent daughter from the powerful Duke’s depraved intentions. Verdi’s gritty opera contrasts a haunting, emotionally careening storyline with radiant melodies, unforgettable arias and ensembles, and some of the most recognizable music in all of opera.

Completing the 2017-2018 season is the comedic jewel, Rossini’s The Barber of Seville, one of the great operatic comedies of the repertoire. While remaining true to every character, every gesture and every note of the original opera, this vibrant production of Barber draws inspiration from the magical realism of filmmaker Pedro Almodóvar, in order to transform the opera’s Spanish setting into a ‘60s psychedelic experience. Even after 200 years, this opera’s buoyant good humor and elegant melodies have delighted the diverse tastes of every generation. Several of the most recognizable tunes have entered the world’s musical unconscious, most notably the introductory patter song of the swaggering Figaro, the titular barber of Seville. In The Barber of Seville, audiences are first introduced to the beautiful Rosina, later known as the Countess (Almaviva) in The Marriage of Figaro. The Barber of Seville is a delightful opera perfect for the whole family.
